

Topic: Available Analyses for the 2012-Planning Year

The following information requires action by July 26, 2009:

- FPA Year 2 starts in August 2009. The FPU's 2011 submitted analysis will automatically be migrated to the 2012 planning year.
- In addition, each FPU may select up to two additional analyses for migration to planning year 2012. To designate those additional analyses, pre-pend the @ symbol to the analysis name. FPU must make these additional selections by July 26, 2009.

Example:

The name of the first additional analysis to migrate: my_validation

For migration, rename this analysis: @my_validation

If there are more than two analyses with the @symbol, only the two most recent will be migrated. These analyses will be the two closest to the top of the selection window. Modifying the name with the @ symbol moves them to that top position. Refer to Selecting Team and Analysis chapter in the FPA User Guide for further information about editing an analysis name.

The FPA project recommends:

- Migrating the validation analysis, if available, as there will be a change in fire season calculation for the 2012 analysis and a re-validation is required
- Users should download and save the Input Data Report and the Performance Metrics Report for each migrated analyses in case system issues arise